EYE AND EAR INFIRMARY!

MEIGS CASE, M. D., OPERATOR UPON THE EYE & EAR. LECTURES ON THE BYE.

THABISMUS, or Gross Eye, may be defined the beautice of harmony between the two eyes, which crists to tuch an extent that one of them does not moved in the color, but is turned away involuntarily to the other side.

It is an affection so apparent as searesty to require explanation, and is a most unploasant defect, particularly to young needle, and usver fails to impair the sigh nry of tests essentially of a contraction of one of the x mugairs which fix the ball as represented in the cu

The operation is usually performed by me, in a few grands, and is always entirely sub-ressful, both in reliev-ar the deformity and improving the vision to a great Folled.—Within a few years past in foil has come into very general use in the place of paper, as an article in which to put up chewing to bace for general use. The change was convenient, sud the new article grew into favor among tobacco chewers. At first concumers had to pay a pretty good price for it, but of late the article has been cheapened. But it has just received a blow that we think must terminate its entire use. It is now asserted, and with severe experience to support it, that the tin foil has dangerous poisonous qualities. Two cases have arisen that are calculated to give a great celebrity to this belief. egree.

Operations for Cataract, "rifficial pupil, &c., scientifially and successfully performed. Sperations for Cataract, striftchal pupil, a.c., sciontifically and suncessfully performed.

French artificial types inserted without operation or pain, having the appearance and all the motions of the attural yea.

All the recent discourses and impresents in the diagnosis and treatment of sociar and arral diseases, will be reconteed to for the restoration and preservation of the most reliable of the senses, sight and heating.

Persons from a distance will be provided with boarding houses by making application at the effice immediatily on arriving in the Oity.

f training for a good thing:--

The Prize Ring. The following from the New York Clipper, (a sporting paper, i shows how much training a man will submit to for a bad thing,—and it is a sad rebuke upon such as will not submit to any sort Monnieser's Training.—It being now half-past elever, the usual time for Mr. Merrissey to return from his morning walk of nice or ten miles, we accompanied Shipherd (principal trainer) on the road to meet him. After pro-ceeding a short distance we met Dan Burns (sa-tistant trainer) returning, and shortly after Mor-SHADE TRAINERS AND STORM STORMS OF A MARKET STORMS AND A a quarter of an hour or tweaty minutes, to facili-tute the increased secretion of perspiration arising from his prolonged waiking exercises. After again being will rubbed down, he changes his clothee and commences "fighting the bag." In this exorcise he uses a pair of dumb bells, and finishes off with his "bunch of lives," the hands being protected by a pair of leating clotes. He than also a tenur valuates, thus is proceedings. bein takes a twenty minutes turn in practicing with a Low and it genious apparatus for raising heavy weights, and which is so constructed and arranged as is call into exercise and develope the marcles of the ern a and shoulders as well as

The subject of our notice rises at five o'clock A. M., and after weaking and aponging in cold water, and undergoing a and sponging in total water, and quergoing a rough rubbing, he dresses and commences practising with the dumb bells and the weight machine, which we have noticed above. After balf an hour thus spent, he, accompanied either by Burns or Lawrence, his assistant trainers, start off on a lour or five mile walk before breakfast. On his return after heirs, thoroughlands. his route nearly every day; as from the number of roads in overy direction in this locality, he can vary nia walk, and thus avoid the monoto-ny which is naturally associated with the same

Alter dinner he rests no hour, and then sgain After dincer he rests an hour, and their egain starts afresh in pursuit of the acquiention of muscle, and the necessarily consequent reduction of obseity and fat. Attended either by Shepherd, Burns or Luwronce, (who assisted him when training for his fight with Salitvan,) ho takes a seven or eight mile tour through the adjacent country, and his long, regular and rapid etride, the result of such continual practice, makes it a matter of difficulty for his companious to keen slampaide him. On his return, he again to keen slampaide him. On his return, he again makes it a matter of difficulty for his comparious to keep alongside him. On his return he again changes his clothing, and after being well rubbed down and resting a short time, he again exercises with the weight apparatus, stuffed bug and dumb bells, diversified with set to's with his trainer, Shepherd, with the gloves. In the art of eparing, Morrisery has acquired a great degree of preficiency, and his trainer informs us that he has never witness d a quicker covatier hitter. He has also improved surprisingly in stopping and getting away, and his theoretic knowledge of boxing will be found widely different to his exhibitions in his previous contacts with Sullivan and Thompson.

After these veriad exerciser, at six o'clock he is summoned to a light supper, in which, as at intter. He has also improved surprisingly in stopping and getting away, and his theoretic knowledge of boxing will be found widely different to his exhibitions in his previous contucts with Sullivan and Thompson.

After these varied exercises, at six o'clock has summoned to a light supper, in which, as at the preceding meals, his trainers join him. At this meal he partakes of light and easily digested food, with a young and tender chicken, and light boiled eggs occasionally. An interval of rest ensues, and then he is summoned again to his work. This consists of rowing exercise.

The Abbey Hotel stands on the banks of the his work. This consists of rowleg exercise — | The Abbay Hotel stands on the banks of the The Abber Hutel stands on the banks of the Hudson, with a beautifully shaded lawn extending from the hours to the river; and here, convenient of secene, are the boats belonging to the botel, in which Mr. Morriseey takes his rowing exercise. In these boating orcursions he is generally accompanied by his trainer, Mr. Shepherd, and in the delightful and uthletic recreation of sorting of sorting the same of the sam tion of rowing, an hour or two insensibly pas

The value and importance of the practice of the oar is not sufficiently estimated among trainers. One of the principal authorities of the science of physiology, Dr. Andrew Combe, asserts that there is no exercise, without exception, which tends to develope so many muscles of the body, and so equally in their action, as that of rowing. Aware of this fact from experience, it is not to be wondered at that Mr. Shepherd makes the regular practice of the oar an indispensible exercise with his pupil. Thus the day passes, and shortly after 8 o'clock P. M., Mr. Morrissey, in a most proper condition to court "nature's sweet restorer," retires to his virtuous couch to propage for the repetition, on the succeeding day, of all the same course of preparation which we have faintly attempted to describe above." of the body, and so equally in their action, as

The editor of the Clipper appears from his statement to have been initiated into other parts of the training system; but, "being communicated in confidence," be keeps the curtain down. He thinks, no doubt, the above operation a certain cure for the gout and despensia, and assures the friends of Morrissey that "his slightly approaching aldormanic corporation has enturely disappeared." No doubt of it. In three weeks he has decreased from 205 pounds to 197 pounds, and before the day of battle, is expected to lose ten or twelve pounds more.

Prince Albert. The only incident which occurred during my stay in the quiet little city, was the visit of Prince Albert to his brother, Duke Ernst II.—
The Prince came to his paternal State for the first time since Queen Victoria's visit in 1845.—
He traveled incognito, and was accompanied only by Col. Ponsonby. In company with the Duke, he visited the new observatory, on which occasion I had the opportunity of being presented to him. He is now about fifty years of age, quite stont, a little inclining to corpulency, and his brown hair is getting thin. I liked him much better in ordinary civilian's dress than when I saw him in his Field-Marshal's uniform in London. He is still a strikingly handsome man, and other state. It is fire proof, don. Duke Ernst, although he is the older, appears to be the youngest of the two. His manners are exceedingly dashing off-handed, unrestrained and frank; he violates ante-diluvian etiquette in a way most alarming to the old fogies, but the people like him, and there is no Prince in Germany who commands so much respect. He is a composer, an author, and a spect. He is a composer, an author, and a capital actor, and withal as liberal in his politi-cal ideas as it is possible for a man in his position

An Internant in Count.—During a mession of the Circuit Court at Lyuchburg, an Irishman was indicted for stubbing another on the canal, and the only witness was a Dennis O'Brien, who was required to enter into bonds for his appearance at the new court. The recognizance was used in the usual form:—

"You acknowledge yourself indebted to the Commonwealth of Virginia in the sum of fire

At this stage of the matter a brother of Dendictionary and acid.

At this stage of the matter a brother of Dennis interfered, and said:—
